

ons français. Parler français, câ est fac

Christophe Girard likes the train stations in Paris and he says why.

The words to say it

je monte à Paris = I am going to Paris.
It also means: "I am going to Paris to make a success of my life, to find a job, to look for an adventure".

Did you know?

Near a railway track in France, you may see a sign with the odd message: Un train peut en cacher un autre. This simply means that you have to be careful whenever near a railway track (if one train passes, another might be close behind for example).
